What is Anti-Social Behaviour? (ASB)

Anti-Social Behaviour comes in many different forms.

It can range from serious criminal acts to more everyday incidents such as noise nuisance.

What is Our Approach?

Ribble Valley Homes takes all reported incidents of anti-social behaviour very seriously and will take whatever steps are necessary to put a stop to it. This will include legal action when appropriate.

Ribble Valley Homes will usually acknowledge all reports of ASB in writing. After you have reported an incident to a member of staff, you will receive an acknowledgment letter advising you that your report has been passed to a named Housing Officer who will contact you within 5 working days of your report being received. If the matter is serious, we will aim to see you immediately or within 24 hours (1 working day).

Examples of Anti-Social Behaviour:

- Racism
- Playing of loud music
- Fly tipping
- Banging and slamming doors
- Children not kept under control
- Dealing drugs
- Threatening to use violence

- Criminal activity
- Domestic violence
- Acts of violence
- Other forms of harassment/hate crime

What do we consider to be serious ASB?

We consider it to be serious if the matter requires an immediate response. An example of this could be that somebody has been threatened with or been the victim of violence.

It could be that a person or family have received other serious threats such as an attack of arson.

Racial Harassment/Harassment and other Hate Crime

In cases of Racial Harassment/Domestic Violence and other forms of Harassment or Hate Crime where there is violence or the threat of violence, the victim will be contacted within 24 hours (1 working day).

If there are no threats of violence, the victim will be contacted within 48 hours (2 working days).

What happens next?

When you have made a report, this is passed to an officer from the Housing Services Team. They will make arrangements to see you and will tell you exactly what is going to happen from that point. This will include how the case will be investigated and whether we would need to speak to the person(s) responsible for the anti-social behaviour you have reported. Once you have been given an explanation, this will be followed up in writing so that you have a written record of what has been agreed.

Once the investigation is complete, we will make a decision as to what action is necessary. You will be kept informed throughout this process.

What will your dedicated Housing Officer do?

They will:

- Interview the victim
- Interview the perpetrator
- Provide advice and assistance
- Refer the matter for mediation
- Make referrals to other agencies
- Liaise with Lancashire Police
- Take appropriate action when necessary. This may include legal action such as possession proceedings or an injunction or may just result in a formal warning.

Do I have to give my details?

Whilst we cannot insist on you giving us your details, we will ask so that we can keep you informed in relation to any developments connected with your report. If you do not give us your details, we cannot report back to you.

Will you disclose my details to the person I have complained about?

We cannot disclose any details without your consent. However in some circumstances it can be obvious where a complaint has come from. For example, if you complain about noise nuisance from your neighbour and you live next door, then they may have a pretty good idea who has made the complaint.

What can we do to resolve issues?

There are several options, available to us in resolving problems associated with anti-social behaviour.

These include legal remedies such as Possession Proceedings, Demotion Proceedings, Injunctions and Anti-Social Behaviour Orders (ASBO).

Possession Proceedings

These are proceedings to recover possession of a tenancy because there has been a serious or continuous breach of tenancy and all other remedies have been tried and failed.

Demotion Proceedings

Similar to possession proceedings, but instead of asking the court for possession, we can ask that the tenancy is downgraded to an assured shorthold tenancy for a 12 month period. This gives the tenant less security and allows us to act quickly if there are any further breaches within the demotion period.

Injunctions

These are available against anybody aged 18 or over whether or not they are a Ribble Valley Homes Tenant or live in a property owned by Ribble Valley Homes. An injunction is an order that prevents a person acting in an anti-social manner and usually lasts for six months. In certain circumstances, they can last longer and can prevent a person from entering certain areas.

Anti-Social Behaviour Order (ASBO)

These are available against anybody aged 10 or over whether or not they are a Ribble Valley Homes Tenant or live in a property owned by Ribble Valley Homes and are put in place to prevent a person from acting in an anti-social or criminal manner for a period of at least two years. They can also be used to prevent a person from entering a defined area such as a particular street or estate.

If the offender is under 10 years of age, it does not mean that action cannot be taken. If action was necessary, it would be taken against a parent or appropriate adult. This may or may not be a Ribble Valley Homes tenant.

Are there other remedies available?

Yes, as well as the legal remedies outlined, there are a number of ways to resolve matters without the need to apply to court.

These include Partnership Working, verbal and written warnings, mediation and acceptable behaviour contracts.

Partnership Working

In some circumstances we will make a referral to a partner agency that may be in a position to offer support to both victims and perpetrators of ASB. They may also be able to help resolve the issues. An example of this would be the Youth Service who can work with us and young people to divert them away.

Verbal and Written Warnings

Having received reports about anti-social behaviour, we can speak to those people identified as being responsible and ask them to behave in a more reasonable manner. If they agree to this, it will not be necessary to take any further action.

Mediation

If the matter is a dispute between neighbours, we will suggest a referral is made to an independent mediation service. This is a trusted method of resolving issues without legal action being necessary. Mediation is an opportunity for you and the other party to discuss the issues that affect you and to try and find an amicable solution. It usually involves each party being interviewed separately and if necessary bringing all parties around the table. Mediation will be provided independently by professionally trained mediators. If mediation is refused as a reasonable solution to resolving an issue, this will be taken in to account in any subsequent action we may consider.

Acceptable Behaviour Contracts

These are mainly used to address anti-social behaviour carried out by young people aged between 10-16 but have also been used against adults.

The contracts address anti-social behaviour and outline the behaviours that are not to be continued. The agreements are entered in to on a voluntary basis and are signed by and in the presence of the person responsible for the behaviour, their parent or guardian, a member of Ribble Valley Homes' Housing Services Team and a Police Officer. The contract also covers the consequences of continuing to act in an anti-social manner.
